A. L. WALKER WINS FOX HILLS TOURNEY

Staten Island Youth Defeats Kammer in Golf Final by 8 and 1. '

Winner Plays Brilliantly, Running Over Par Figures on Only Two Holes.

By INNIS BROWN.

A. L. Walker, Jr., of the Richmond county Country Club, also captain of clumbia University gold team, added farther lustre to his rather brillian golfing record for the season yesterday afternoon by defeating A. F. Kammer of Baltusrol, 3 and 1, in the final round afternoon by defeating A. F. Kammer of Baltusrol, 3 and 1, in the final round of the Fox Hills invitation tournament. Incidentally this defeat reverses the results of the last playing of this tournament. In the latter Walker won the qualifying round and Kammer captured the tournament cup. Kammer took away the qualifying prize on Thuraday. This final round was a very fitting dush to the fine brand of golf the Staten Island youngster has displayed all through the tournament. And by way of showing what the Baltusrol star was up against, it may be stated that Walker covered the eighteen holes in 72, which is one better than par for the course.

Not only that, but seldom was there any doubt as to whether or not he would equal par. More often he was in a position where he could drop under by holing putts of twelve, fifteen and eighteen feet. On but two holes of the round did he find himself recovering from mistakes to reach par, and eddly enough he did so each time. The third and tenth holes were the only ones to run above par figures, and in each instance he was within a few feet of the edge of the green with two shots left for par figures. At the eighth he barely missed a two, whereas par for the hole is 4, when a chip shot hit the back of the cug and bounded away about two feet. Strangely enough he missed the short putt for a 3.

Walker Gets Earty Lead.

Walker Gets Early Lead.

Welker got away to an early lead and was never headed. He captured the first and second holes with 4s against Kammer's 5s, making him 2 up. He landed just short of the green with a midiron on the 239 yard third. His approach trickled down the hill past the cup several feet, and he missed a 4, losing to Kammer, who holed his put.

L losing to Kammer, who holed his put.

A hooked tee shot on the fourth landed him in trouble, and his second selled across the course into more high grass. His third was still about short, but he chipped up and holed a 5. Kammer topped into a trap, played his second out into high grass and his third into more trouble on the right of the course. He needed five to get on, and lost. From there on through the ninth every hole was halved, the figures being 3, 5, 4, 4 and 4, all par.

Kammer had his second winning hole at the tenth. Neither was on the green with his second, but Kammer chipped be within ten feet of the pin and holed a 4. Walker needed two puts and took 5. The eleventh was halved in fours. Walker potted a long put of some eighteen feet to hold this one to a tie. A topped second hurt his chances.

Halve Twelfth Hole.

On the twelfth both were flag high on their drives, but neither was on. Kam-mer chipped short, but his next effort Walker a stymle and they halved Walker got the 529 yard thirteenth with a fine four. His second was a brassle that carried the deep hollow and foled nearly to the green. He followed with a mashle chip to within three feet short and failed to get on with his third.

On in four, he missed his try for a five, while Walker holed his in four.

WIFLDERS WIN TI Kammer picked up one on the fourteenth. He followed a very good drive with a nice pitch to the green and then ran down a fifteen foot putt. Walker on in two needed two putts. The fifteenth needed two putts. The fifteenth s halved in foura. Walker went back into a lead of two Walker went back into a lead of two at the sixteenth. Kammer was trapped on his tee shot, while Walker landed liventy feet from the flag. Kammer tarely got out on to the green with his second and took two putts. Walker laid his second dead and holed in three, making him dormit two.

At the seventeenth Walker led off with a beautiful drive. The distance here is a beautiful drive. The distance here is a beautiful drive. The distance here is a fail to score a point, but they also failed to win a set.

ming on the back, cutting the time from 2:26 2-5 to 2:18.

Along Came Ruth.

Ruth, however, recently remedied matters in regard to the back stroke. In winning the national 150 yard championship she did 2:17 2-5 in a 75 foot pool and officially placed the world's figures to her credit under wanted conditions. A few days later, too, she again chipped the 100 yard national breast stroke time by four more seconds, the time shelph to worth the strong and the strong champions have not attained such great theights, but they turn fifty yards consistently around 31 seconds, the time which won the national title at the distance last month, so it will be seen that they are not slow.

As fancy divers the twins rank with the leaders. Both have captured district or State titles, and their scores in dicate that they will prove likely candidates for national honors hereafter. The closing half of the meeting was not as successful as the first session the Saturday before. Neither society with a capital S nor the general public gave the event anything like the support they had accorded the first half. For this the weather probably was responsible, as it was a bit too hot to roast out there with no roof on the stand and no protection from the sun anywhere.

But with all that there was a goodly turnout of perhaps three thousand, with early summer styles among the feminine delegation making a feature not to be sneezed at. There was a big military representation, headed by Major-Gen. Alexander. The summaries:

looping over the net. His ability to keep Voshell away from the net upset all of the latter's tactics.

Wind Bothers Voshell.

Another factor which counted strongly against Voshell was a freaky wind which swept across the courts and played all sorts of tricks with the ball. Voshell, who has had plenty of army experience, attempted to set his racket to the proper windage, but had no success. It seemed that the wind changed its course every other minute, Voshell let the wind bother him a great deal and lost track of other methods of winning in attempting to methods of winning in attempting to adjust his game to the gale. The wily Jap, on the other hand, seemed content to let the wind adjust itself to his game and moved along smoothly.

In the opening set the contest was a matter of service. Voshell, who has been exceptionally severe on his delivery, was a bit weak yesterday. He managed to stave off the Jap, however, until sixteen games had been played. The Jap then broke through and extend in.

games had been played. The Jap then broke through and gathered in a set.

The second set brought out the best of Kumagae's tennis. He outplayed Voshell in this set at every department of the game. Kumagae seemed to be every place on the courts. Voshell made many a pretty shot, but no matter how strong was the stroke of the metropolitan champion and to matter how strong was the stroke of the metropolitan champion and to matter how strong the stroke of the metropolitan champion and the matter how strong the stroke of the metropolitan champion and the matter how strong the stroke of the metropolitan champion and the matter how strong the stroke of the metropolitan champion and the matter how strong the stroke of the metropolitan champion and the matter how strong the stroke of the metropolitan champion and the strong pion and no matter how sure it seemed of scoring a point, Kumagae seemed to have the faculty of being on hand to get the ball back.

Third Set Slower.

The third set was not so good. Voshell appeared to have tired of the struggle and his ineffectual fight against the vagaries of the wind. It was evident that he was not hustling around the court as fast as might have been and that he was losing many a point by his sluggishness. Nor was Kumagae's play so good, for the latter had tired himself out in his re-lentless attack of the second set and was slow on his feet in the third.
